Dear Erik:

We have been partnering with Sigma for nearly a decade now. The reason for the longevity of the relationship is that Sigma continues to bring to the partnership solutions to meet not only our technical needs but also solutions that make financial sense.

Recently, we experienced as well, their commitment to the relationship to a new level. In looking for a cost effective technology solution, the technology did not meet the demands of the environment. Sigma worked closely with us to evaluate the issues and then recommended a better solution which fit the demands. In so doing, they negotiated not only a very competitive price for the replacement solution, but also took it upon themselves to assist in the return of the product being replaced. It was that commitment to the customer – going above and beyond – that continues to make Sigma Solutions a key partner in solutions for our environment.

Thanks for your continued efforts and support.

Sincerely,
